REFLECTION:

Every follower of Christ is called to proclaim the Kingdom of God. Even reluctant followers. To the man who was making excuses for not following, Jesus said, “Go and proclaim the Kingdom of God” (Lk 9: 60). A little earlier Luke had described the sending out of the Twelve. But the instructions Jesus gave to the Twelve (in chapter 9) and to the Seventy-two (in chapter 10) are practically the same. From this we are to understand that every Christian is an apostle- a word that means ‘sent’. If you feel like a lamb among wolves, that’s the way you should expect to feel: it is written in the gospels.

What sort of qualifications do you need for going out to others? Do you need a diploma in catechetics? No. Not one of the Seventy-two had a diploma of any kind- not any of the Twelve. Jesus himself had no diplomas or degrees. But what you have to have is love. If you love genuinely, you are a missionary: you are going out of yourself. If you go out to even one stranger you are, in a way, going out “to the whole world.” And if you go out to an enemy, you are standing on the highest peak of the Christian life.

But what do I say, what do I do? Here is a word of advice from Dorothy Day, who co-founded Catholic Worker movement: “We do what we can, and the whole field of all the Works of Mercy is open to us. There is a saying, ‘Do what you are doing.’ If you are a student, study, prepare, in order to give to others, and keep alive in yourself the vision of a new social order. All works come under the heading of the Works of Mercy which are the opposite of the works of war.
