

REFLECTIONS FOR THIS SUNDAY

7TH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR :

FIRST READING:- A reading from the Book of Leviticus (19:1-2, 17-18)

God instructs Moses to tell his people to imitate the holiness of God and be charitable in their lives because He does not want them to exact vengeance or bear a grudge against another.

RESPONSE :- The Lord is compassion and love

SECOND READING:- A reading from the second Letter of St. Paul to the Corinthians (3:16-23)

St. Paul reminds the Corinthians that they are the temple of the Holy Spirit and so they should respect one another forgetting all their differences and shortcomings.

GOSPEL :- A reading from the Holy Gospel according to St. Mathew (5:38-48)

Jesus teaches us the most sublime lesson, when he says: "Love your enemies, pray for your persecutors." What differentiates the disciples from others is their willingness to love others as God loves them.

REFLECTION:

In her poem entitled “ My heart ran forth” Jessica Powers, the author so beautifully captures the tendency in all of us to place love and all the things that challenge us at a distance. We place them at a distance (1) in time, or (2) in place.

1. We are always willing to postpone good things, but bad things we do right away. We would like to postpone faith, hope and love. But fear, greed and anger we attend to immediately. Love is one of the good things - the very best, St. Paul said (“ the greatest of these is love “ - 1 Cor 13:13). So we tend to postpone it. But somewhere deep in us there is the wisdom to know that love is for now or never.

2. And we wouldn't mind loving people who are at a safe distance, as Jessica Powers let us see in that poem. When I love I make myself vulnerable. But if I am afraid of that I won't love. If only we could do the good things now, and postpone the bad things! What a world it would be if our love were as quick and as warm and as long-lasting as our hate. A wise man once said: “ There's no future!” It was not out of despair, but he said it cheerfully. He said, “ The future exists only in your head, nowhere else. It is only an idea. So don't tell me what you are going to do in the future. Tell me what you are doing now.” He was right.

If I don't love the people and the things around me now I am not a loving person and I can have nothing to say about love. We don't say “ Give us tomorrow our daily bread.” We want real bread, not an idea of bread. Real things are for now. And God too is for now. If I don't love now I know nothing about God. “ Whoever does not love does not know God, because God is love, “ wrote St. John. (1 Jn 4:8)
